DIRECTORS REVISE CHMBER'S BY LAWS

CHMBER'S BY-LAWS

The directors of the chamber of commerce are holding daily sessions for the purpose of going over a draft of a revision of the bylaws for submission to a meeting of the members which will be held Tuesday evening, January 18.

The bylaws of the chamber have long since been outgrown. Among the changes suggested are an increase in the number of directors from nine to fifteen and the employment of a manager who shall have complete charge of the actual workings of the organization with power to appoint a number of secretaries who will act as heads of departments.

The object in increasing the number of directors is to increase the efficiency of the various committees. Under the present organization it has been found necessary frequently to make one director chairman of two or more committees, thereby making it practically impossible for him to give proper attention to some of the committees.

Under the new bylaws, if adopted directors will be elected for a period

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS,

Starts in Arizona; Newbury and Miller Enter.

Phoenix, Ariz. Jan. 12.—Democratic candidates for state offices are springing up thick and fast since the new year began. Within the last few days half a dozen Democrats who had been regarded as merely "receptive," or had not been included at all in political prognostications, have let it be known that they expect to figure in the cam-that they expect to figure in the campaign proceding the primarice and hope to figure somewhat in the campaign following.

Frominent among these are John E. Newbury, of Pearce. Cochise county, and P. J. Miller, of Yuma. Newbury is out for secretary of state and Miller for the corporation commission.

Sidney P. Oaborn, the present secretary, and state treasurer Milt Simms amounced weeks ago that they wanted to be secretary for the next two years. Simma is from Graham county and Oaborn from Phoenix: both are popular and it was generally agreed that the race between them would be exceedingly close. Just how Newbury's injection into the situation will affect Simms and Oaborn is not yet apparent. None of the three is aligned with the Hunt wing of the party. Newbury, in fact, was a member of the lower house of the second state legislature and was most decidedly not a member of the now famous 'Hunt combine.' fis fought for a mine tax bill and many other things that the combine did not want. Nevertheless he was any member of the opposition.

want. Nevertheless he was any member with the combine as was any member of the opposition.

Newbury Good Campaigner.

Newbury cannot expect any Hunt support and he is up against two of the strongest men of the party in Osborn and Simms, but he is popular in his own county, is a good campaigner and must be reckoned with.

Miller was appointed by Gov. Hunt to the tax commission when that body was formed, to serve till the 1914 election. He was a candidate for election to that body but was defeated by Thos. E. Campbeil, Republican. While on the commission he advocated the taxnition of mines under a special law, therefore he is not one of the Hunt crowd. He is now employed by the state land department as a selector.

Miller Changes Plans.

For a time Miller was planning to run for the tax commission in 1918, but he has now changed his plans and is making a try for the place on the corporation commission that Paul Geary is to relinquish. He will have plenty of opposition for the nomination. Sam Proctor, of Winslow, Hunt's spekesman on the floor of the house hast spring, was the first to announce himself as a candidate for that office. J. W. Weatherford, of Flagstaff and Phoenix, defeated for the nomination in 1914, is trying again.

Dr. W. P. Sims, of Bisben, president of the second state senate, had not fully decided at last reports, whether he would run for the corporation commission of the corporation commission of the component of the second state senate, had not fully decided at last reports, whether he would run for the corporation commission of the component of the second state senate, had not fully decided at last reports, whether he would run for the corporation commission that he will try to land on the tax commission extends through 1918, is from Sims's county. Sims is a mine tax law advocate and if he opposes Howe the battie will probably be fought on that issue.

C. N. Roberts, of Chehise county, one of Hunt's principal ligutemants, was thinking of runing for the corporation commission, but late advices are that he will be satisfied with a seat in the senate. He was a member of the first state senate and as chairman of the committee on appropriations became known as the "watchdog of the treasury."

The world is soon to be enriched with another photoplay company which has stolen silently upon us with as little demonstration as a film company ever was known to make. In fact, the idea prevails that the veil of secrecy has slipped off before the contest was quite ready to be unveiled.

Bluebird Photoplays company is the official title and the first production is to be launched about January 24. The idea of it, given out by a Universal official, is one exceptionally strong feature every week, measuring five or more reels, preferably six or seven. These features are to be both made and bought. The studio location is not given out. The Sarah Bernhardt film is to be a Bluebird.
